In the long historical development process, all ethnic groups have gradually formed a cultural and artistic system that fits the development of their own production and life based on the natural and social environment for survival and life. The visual aesthetic concepts formed by all ethnic groups under the influence of various factors have laid a spiritual foundation for the formation and evolution of traditional patterns. With the development of the times and the improvement of living standards, people's demand for traditional sports costumes is increasing. For ethnic minorities, their unique cultural traditions and sports features provide rich materials and inspiration for the production and innovation of ethnic minority traditional sports costumes, and further promote and popularize the love of the people of all ethnic groups. Ethnic minority traditional sports play an important role in inheriting and developing excellent traditional culture, promoting exchanges, exchanges and blending among ethnic groups, improving the physical health level of people of all ethnic groups, and enriching the spiritual and cultural life of people of all ethnic groups.

1. The Application Value of Minority Costume Patterns in Costume Design

1.1. The application and inheritance value of minority costumes

The symbols of cultural characteristics of ethnic minorities, due to geography, environment, climate, customs, economy, culture and other reasons, have formed different styles of cultural characteristics. Traditional patterns of ethnic minorities are visual shapes formed by condensing artistic wisdom with animals, plants, scenes, characters, dotted lines and other basic elements in the historical development of ethnic minorities.

Combined with the current market background of the rise of national fashion design and the application of traditional clothing elements in fashion design, it can be analyzed that the application of traditional patterns in national fashion design mainly focuses on colors, Chinese characters and patterns, and most of them are traditional elements of the Han, while traditional patterns of ethnic minorities are rarely used in the design of brand national fashion. [1] Modern culture continues to develop well. It not only brings great convenience to people's lives, but also brings great impact to ethnic minority costumes. The economic development is becoming more and more international. In the process of development, the possibility that traditional culture will be gradually forgotten is not ruled out. However, under the great background of social development, people also feel the gradual improvement of social development tolerance. Once we seize this huge development opportunity and make rational use of our traditional excellent characteristic culture, the characteristic culture that has developed for thousands of years will surely be endless and prosperous.

"Clothing, food, shelter and transportation" are the basic needs of people's lives, among which "clothing" ranks first, which shows its importance and great influence on our daily life. Under the accelerated development wave of the new era, ethnic minority costumes have been favored by more and more young people because of their unique visual system and artistic accomplishment. Through the blending of costumes, we have new ideas on the spread of culture. No matter how many storms we have experienced, Chinese children are still proud of traditional aesthetics. On the road to exploring cultural development, we have made great efforts to advance, so we have gradually added a lot of "fresh blood", which has promoted the endless development of culture, and more and more minority cultures have been known and familiar to everyone.

The public's acceptance of characteristic costumes is getting higher and higher. On major social platforms, national costumes and ubiquitous national cultural elements play a vital role in the development of ethnic minority culture. The inheritors of ethnic minorities proudly show us the unique and beautiful style of ethnic minority culture, and also say hello to the world through various modes of communication in modern development.

1.2. The influence of regional culture on the application of minority costumes

Regional culture has created the richness of traditional sports of ethnic minorities, which endows them with profound cultural connotations and is the source of their unique personality. Different from other traditional cultural types, sports culture plays an extraordinary role in helping us keep fit and improve the overall physical quality. The richness of regional characteristics has created the diversity and richness of development forms, promoted emotional exchange and social interaction between individuals and groups, and condensed the hearts of all ethnic groups to a certain extent. [2]

Since the development of sports culture, its diversity has benefited from different categories and types of regional culture. The vast prairie breeds spectacular and imposing horse racing activities, the dotted rivers and lakes breed boat and boat projects that adapt to nature and facilitate life, and the deep forests breed bow and crossbow projects that are small in size and used remotely ... At the meso-level, traditional sports activities with the same name are in different regions. Their forms of expression, ways of development and characteristics are quite different. For example, horse racing and wrestling, two sports activities widely carried out by many ethnic groups, are quite different in Inner Mongolia, Sichuan and other places.

Colorful minority sports are the performance and expression of the collective wisdom of the masses of all ethnic groups, including both individual and collective projects; There are not only "horse racing, yak racing and dragon boat racing" which focus on speed competition, but also "archery, crossbow shooting and gun blowing" which decide the winner by hit rate; There are both "holding the stone" of competition strength and "wrestling" of competition strength and skills; There are not only "hiding chess" and "three or three chess" that compete for wisdom, but also "holding eggs" and "throwing nests" in games ... These colorful traditional sports do not exist in isolation, and traditional sports have also played an important role beyond sports itself in the cultural activities with national characteristics that are blooming everywhere in the motherland. For example, thrilling horse racing and unique wrestling have played an important role in the Mongolian Nadam Festival and the Yi People’s Torch Festival. A series of horse racing festivals (meetings) have built a material exchange platform with the theme of traditional sports, and the Zhuang People's Gyro Festival and the Miao People's Dragon Boat Festival have perfectly combined traditional sports and festival culture. The traditional sports activities scattered in different places and carried out in different seasons are colorful, showing the richness, breadth and massiveness of our national traditional sports culture with colorful appearance and the overall pattern of "each has its own beauty, the United States and the United States".

The cultural diversity contained in regional culture is more reflected in the subtle connection between cultures, which complement each other and influence each other. Festival culture, food culture and religious culture in various regions all contribute to the development of sports culture in different degrees. People treat distant friends with food, draw closer to each other with food, and convey their own cultures. The blending of cultures is increasingly prominent in the tasting of food. To some extent, the distinctive festival culture held in distinctive national costumes is the best way to publicize national characteristics, which is called "keeping things quiet". Festival culture is the best form of celebration evolved from the long-term evolution of all ethnic groups, which can not only show unique costume culture, but also be the top priority of cultural inheritance. Therefore, the regional culture endows the traditional sports of ethnic minorities with profound cultural connotation, and it is the regional culture that casts the unique personality of the traditional sports of ethnic minorities.

In addition, equipment with ethnic characteristics, such as satin gloves and Miao bronze drums, can also be used as props or decorations in sports competitions to increase the enjoyment and interest of the competition.

The characteristic elements of ethnic minorities can be spread through performances such as dance and music. Dances and music of ethnic minorities are usually full of rhythm and unique style,
